Armed robber stalks residents in northeast Romulus

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus and Westland Police have compiled a composite picture of the suspect responsible for six armed robberies along Van Born Road during the past week.

The description of a 6-foot, 160-pound, black male in his early 20s who is "articulate and soft-spoken" yet armed and dangerous was uniformly reported by many of the assaulted residents. On occasion he has worn a ski mask, a red bandana over his face and a grey, hooded sweatshirt.

In most instances the assailant threatened his victims with a large knife. On one occasion, he used the victim's own shotgun and pointed the barrel at his neck. Two victims were slightly injured when attacked with a knife, according to police.

The incidents occurred near Van Born between Henry Ruff and Inkster roads. Four incidents occurred in Romulus and two in Westland. Only one individual was seen by all but one of the victims but on more than one occasion the suspect reportedly aludee to an accomplice.

In a related incident, three armed men robbed a resident of his car in the parking lot of his Niagara Street home on Saturday.

The first incident occured one week ago Friday on Henry Ruff Road. The next day a similar incident occured in the same area. Again the assailant confronted the victim and stole money and a car which was found stripped in Inkster.

On Sunday, the assailant entered a resident's home near Van Born and Merriman roads while they were napping, according to Westland Police reports. The suspect, armed with a large knife, held the victims at bay with their own shotgun. He ransacked their home taking the shotgun, car and other items. Again, the car was found in Inkster. A second male was heard but not seen.

On Thursday, two incidents occurred within 12 hours. "At 1:30 a.m. on Bruce Street in Romulus," reported Romulus Lieutenant Ken Kraus, "A guy was watching television when all of a sudden a guy grabs him from behind. The screen was later found to be cut open. As he wrestled with him, his brother and mother awoke and he ran out the front door. The victim recieved a small laceration on his hand as a result of his resistance. It was not life threatening and I don't think he went to the hospital.

"Later that morning at 11:15 on Henry Ruff Road, a woman returned home and the assailant apparently waiting on the porch or may have happened to be there. He was armed with a knife and escorted her in. He took a few things and left.

"Evidently, he likes the area. If he wasn't familiar with the area before, he's becoming very familiar now. All these incidents have occurred within a mile and a half of one another," noted Kraus.

On at 1:30 p.m. Saturday on Van Born near Inkster Road in Westland, the assailant again entered the home of an elderly couple who had returned from working in the garden.

"They saw a man in the kitchen and asked what he was doing. The assailant put the knife to the man's throat and in the process slightly cut his hand," said Westland Sergeant Robbin Crosby. "He tied the couple with a bathrobe belt and locked them in a closet. After he ransacked their home, he drove off in their car. The car was recovered by Inkster police about a mile away," said Crosby.

Again on Sunday in Westland on Van Born Road, "He entered a home where two people were napping. The owner was awakened by the assailant with the barrel of his shotgun pointed in his face," explained Crosby.

"He tied the man up, ransacked the home and drove off with his car, microwave and lawnmower. The victims thought they heard another man in the kitchen. This whole thing is confusing," said Crosby.

"He sees people outside and he knows he can handle them. Most victims have been elderly," he added.

On two separate occasions, the day before a robbery, a stranger inquired if an unknown person lived there and asked personal questions to a businessman in the area about his neighbor.

"Everybody in this neighborhood lives sort of far apart. Many of the houses are on an acre with a vacant parcel in between," explained one victim.

"My wife and I were taking a nap when he

School millage slated for November

School finances continue to plague Romulus schools for the second year in a row. As a result, members of the school board approved the return of the 1.5 mills maintainance millage to the ballot in the November election.

"This is not an increase but a reinstatement of an existing tax," noted Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell who has come under close scrutiny for recent school cutbacks.

"Residents are already paying this tax. We desperatly need this maintainance millage because many buildings were neglected in the past. Improvements have been made and we need to continue without endangering the million dollars worth of Romulus school buildings into further deterioration.

"The money can't be used for school salaries," he stressed.

Although the millage was defeated this spring by 25 votes, Bedell is certain if just the parents of school children vote, the November millage will pass.

Last year, Romulus schools created a deficit of $1.2 million or 5 percent of the operating budget. The expected deficit for this year is $140,000, considerably less, noted Bedell. "This is much better than during the 1981-82 school year when the deficit was almost 19 percent of the budget," he said.

"No massive program cuts are expected even if the millage is not approved. However, personnel would be eliminated. Wages in our school system are competitive," he said.

"Enrollment for this school year is down by about 100 from last year to 5,200 students. That's a rough estimate," he noted.

The maintainance millage should provide funds for maintainance, repair and improvement of school buildings and sites, roofs and school facilities and the acquisition of equipment, instructional materials and transportation equipment for the school district, according to the millage proposal.

In other school business, another meeting has been scheduled between the union of the bus aides and the school board. After the board meeting last week, several bus aides were allowed to maintain their former schedules with increased hours, according to Bedell.

Art in the parking lot

At the Romulus Arts and Crafts Fair at City Hall on Saturday, artist Muriel Boelter proudly displays her oil paintings of local landscapes and flowers. Seated on the left, is Gale Speer of New Boston and on the right, is James E. Goble of Belleville. All three participated in the September Days Kitchen Days Band. The day-long event was sponsored by the Romulus Council for the Arts.

Traffic problems cornered

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

When motorists travel through the intersection of Middlebelt and Ecorse roads, there's one word of caution from Romulus Police Chief Charles Wilmoth, "Beware."

Of any corner in the city, the chances of getting into an accident are far greater at this intersection than anywhere in Romulus, according to the latest accident count compiled by Wilmoth. During the first six months of this year, 26 accidents occurred here.

Tied for a distant second place with 19 accidents are the corners of both Eureka and Middlebelt roads and Merriman and Wickham roads. The corners of Merriman and Ecorse roads and Merriman and Smith roads are tied for third place with 18 accidents.

The major violations at these high accident corners include: running a red light, crossing the center lane, speeding, failing to yield, changing lanes, improper turns and following too closely.

The single most common cause of all traffic accidents is speeding or failure to yield at an intersection.

"We have tried to identify and rank the major intersections where traffic accidents occur. This indicates to police officers where the the problems occur and what are their causes. It's called selective enforcement," explained Wilmoth.

"We don't want police to write tickets just for the sake of writing tickets," he added.

He emphasized that there should be a reason. "And the best reason for writing a ticket is to stop accidents from happening. We'll go right to the source and alert motorists to where the problems are. I predict that during the next accident count, because of increased surveillance and patrols in the area, Middlebelt and Ecorse roads will not be at the top of the list," he said.

Wilmoth offered three important factors that determine traffic safety: 1) education; 2) engineering and 3) enforcement.

"Taken from the same time last year, traffic accidents continue to increase with 913 this year and only 820 last year. That's an 11 percent increase. It is significant that injury accidents have decreased by 22 percent from 167 this year up down from 213 last year. Bicycle-pedestrian accidents accidents have decreased by 71 percent from for this year down from 14 last year. Fatal accidents remained the same as last year, although with one less death, three this year and four last year," he continued.

Traffic citations increased by 10 percent. At the same time, the department has emphasized violations typically involved in accidents with 61 percent of the written citations issued for hazardous violations, according to Wilmoth.

"Romulus is not only concerned about criminal activity, but traffic activity as well. More people are killed on the highway than anywhere else and it's just accepted by the public. There's a tremendous loss of life and property on the road. Corrective action will be taken by this department to ensure the safety of our motorists.

"We intend to zero in on the the problem. We can almost predict when and where an accident will happen, or the chances are very great of an accident happening at this time," said Wilmoth.

Most violations are against the same people. "The same people go through the same intersection every day and if they form bad habits, eventually that habit will cause an accident," he said.

Wilmoth noted that all ages are violators. "In Romulus, most streets are major arteries and the airport brings in a heavy volume of traffic. If we do our job at any one problem location, the public will see a reduction in accidents. Ecorse and Middlebelt won't be number one for long."

Hunters prepare for opening day

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

With hunting season just weeks away, 40 newly certified Michigan hunters are diligently polishing their guns and preparing for opening day. During the past weekend, they sucessfully completed the Michigan Hunter Education Course as required by the state for first-time hunters under the age of 21.

The two-day course was sponsored by the Wayne County Coon Hunter's Association at its 11 acre facility on Wick Road in Romulus. Officers Darryl Poe and Tom Ellis of the Romulus Police Department taught the 16-hour course. Both are certified as instructors by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Guest appearances were made by Officer Dean Gilbert who demonstrated archery, Sergeant Bob Brown who lectured on first aid and Officer John Hlinik who spoke about wildlife identification.

> A gun is only as safe as the person who handles it.

The five-part course taught: hunter responsibility and ethics; the history of firearms and gun handling; introduction to bowhunting; wildlife identification, management and game care; and survival and first aid. Finally, a 100 question test was administered followed by "a hands on opportunity" to fire a loaded rifle.

"A gun is only as safe as the person who handles it;" stated Ellis, a 10-year veteran of the Romulus police force who, with Poe, initiated the course last year. "One of the adults is a Wayne County Sheriff with 25 years experience who just felt it would be good to learn more.

"The number one thing stressed in this course is gun safety. We explain why hunting is allowed and that the kill is not the main thing but to get out there and enjoy the outdoors.

"The Wayne County Coon Hunter's Association is great. They provided the facility and the lunch. We had such a good response it's possible another session may be taught before November," said Ellis.

"The course helps individuals become good hunters, sportsmen and ultimately, good citizens," added Jack Smith, treasurer of the Coon Club.

The hunting season for archery begins Oct. 1 and for rifle Nov. 15.

Masters of challenge

Sports imitates life for these competitive individuals

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Every day they break barriers that able-bodied individuals never see. On Saturday, individuals from the Oakland Handicapped Association broke even more barriers when they attended a water-ski clinic at the gravel pits on Wick Road in Romulus. Nearly 200 people attended the day-long event which included not only waterskiing, but aerobics, volleyball, hay rides, horse shoes, a bon fire, live band and jet-ski demonstration.

"Under our big top tent, special homemade refreshments, barbeque ribs and chicken, potato salad, baked beans, drinks and all the picnic trimmings were offered," noted Randy Kowalski, president of Home C.A.R.E., Inc. of Dearborn which sponsored the event. His family also owns the gravel pit property where some of the participants and families camped overnight.

A million dollar insurance policy could not be secured by Home C.A.R.E. and therefore members of the Romulus City Council would not allow a $2,000 fireworks display which was planned as the finale of the day-long event. Initially, $500,000 worth of insurance was obtained and later $300,000 more, still not enough to satisfy the city ordinance.

"We don't like the word 'handicapped,' but prefer the term, 'physically challenged.' There was really a need for something like this. Other events like wheelchair races are available but we wanted to offer something more exotic. We could sit back and just service our customers or we could give something back. And if we didn't do it, nobody would. Our philosophy is you have to have two long arms, one that takes and one which gives. It's paid off," said Kowalski. The event was open to the public free of charge.

Home C.A.R.E., Inc. was established three years ago as a supplier of home care medical equipment from 'wheelchairs to high-tech,' according to Kowalski.

"Sports are very important to these individuals. They need heroes too. When they see someone in a wheelchair participating in a sport, they're envious and they strive to do better. We sponsored this last year and this is our fifth and final clinic this year," he said.

Many of the participants in the sports clinic are distinguished in national and international competitions, according to Arthur Humphrey, special projects coordinator at Home C.A.R.E. who also founded the Detroit Wheelchair Athletic Association in 1981. He is one of several physically challenged individuals employed with Home C.A.R.E.

"Our history at Home C.A.R.E. is brief but rich. We have sponsored people all over the world. This summer, our first member sucessfully sky dived. Our own sports director, Chet Kuslowski placed fifth in the International Waterski Competition in Norway last month. We have a certified SCUBA diving program. None of this would be possible without the progressive actions of Home C.A.R.E. and their financial support," explained Humphrey.

Most of the 40 participants were young men between the ages of 11 and 15 but there were also four young women and three adults. Last year only 25 people completed the course.

"Sports activities expand the human potential. They become more competitive in sports and in life. There's a definite attitude change, a better self image with higher esteem. We encourage them to go beyond what they thought they could," said Humphrey.

Larry Dilworth, purchasing agent for Home C.A.R.E. said, "They call me the George Plimpton of the wheelchair set now that I've got land, sea and air covered."

Dilworth jumped 10,000 feet in a sky dive this summer.

"There are other things wheelchair people are doing. I didn't know what to expect but I thought I'd give it a try. It's only another challenge," noted Dilworth.

"When you see them smile at their achievements, all the effort is worth it," added Barbara Boyd, assistant maketing manager at Home C.A.R.E.

Home C.A.R.E., Inc is dedicated to providing year round sports and recreation opportunities to persons with spinal cord, neuromuscular, orthopedic and visual impairments.

AN ARMED ROBBERY occurred Saturday night about 10:30 at Little Caesars Restaurant on Wayne Road near I-94. "Two black males in their early 20s, one short and one tall, armed with a knife entered the store and escaped on foot with an undetermined amount of cash. No one was injured," said Lieutenant Ken Kraus of the Romulus Police.

Robber

grabbed me by my mouth and put the knife to my throat. He rummaged through the whole house. Said he only wanted cash when he forced us to lie face down on the bed. My wife is so upset. I'm thankful he didn't hurt her. But this has psychologically been a bad deal," he said.

Another victim, 64 years old, explained, "He poked my loaded shotgun at the back of my neck. He said 'If you don't give me all your money, I'll blow your head off.' He said that at least three or four times. I figured he was serious and thought this was my last day. My wife was just shaking.

"The guy was slick as a whistle, well educated and no jive talk. I can't understand it. It must be drugs. They say they get meaner than hell on this 'crack' and need money any way they can. My son's been staying with us. If he shows up again, I'll blow his head off," he concluded.

Romulus and Westland police have concentrated more patrols in the area. They suggest residents be careful and if confronted, give them want they want. "Keep your eyes open," police said.

adopt a pet

This tiny guy not only needs a home, but a name. A stray, the 10-week-old kitten is awaiting adoption at the Westland shelter of the Michigan Humane Society. He presently weighs about 2 1/2 pounds and is expected to reach about 10 pounds when fully grown. He is good with children and other animals, according to workers. If you might have a home for this kitten, identification number 178540, or any of the other animals at the shelter, phone 721-7300 for more information.

Meet Alvin. Workers at the animal shelter estimate his age at about 10 weeks and guess that he is a mixed terrier, although they are not offering any estimate as to his size when full-grown. If you might have a home for this little red pup, identification number 178584, phone the Westland Animal Shelter at 721-7300 for more information.

Dear Letter Writer:

We really feel as though we have been treated badly by our employer. We recently (3/86) became aware ot a memo that contained a list of names, and pertinent employment information. This list verified our feelings of abuse. Please help us write to the union authorities and demand that we be heard.

Sincerely,
Workers Action Movement

Dear Union Executives

We were hired between February, 1979, and June, 1979, We were laid off in 1979 and 1980. Some of us were called back in 1980, for an average of one month. We were laid-off, again, in 1980. We were not called back until 1984.

As is clear from attached list, a serious breach of our union contract and company policy has occured, resulting in discrimination.

Our seniority has been alarmingly disrupted. The seniority of our fellow workers has remained intact.

Equity has not prevailed.

We are in possession of information indicating that during the period of time at issue, numerous positions were available, within the company, about which we were not informed and given an opportunity to apply. Furthermore, recall procedures have, obviously, been totally ignored.

We demand a full-scale company management and union investigation of the layoff and re-call practices from 1979 to the present time, including the following:

- Review of each and every personnel file of the undersigned;
- Adjustments in seniority where recall violations have occured.

Please help us uplift employee morale.

For the most part, union grievances have been filed by all of the signatures to this letter - however, without feelings of sufficiency.

We anxiously await your response to this correspondence. Sincerely and with great hope,
Workers Action Movement

COMMENT:

The effectiveness of this letter depends upon the number of signatures and appropriate follow-through of each employee. The wheels are turning, but no definitive results are reported.

Your responses to my column are appreciated. Keep in touch with me at 42245 Ann Arbor Road, PMC Center, Suite 109LL, Plymouth, MI 48170 or 455-8892.

dan's dogs

dan and chris morris

Many of our students question why we do not use rubber floor mats for the dogs to walk on during class.

To be honest, this question surprised me because within the home and outside there are any number of surfaces on which to walk. If the dog learned to perform only on a steady matted floor, it would become uneasy and unsure of itself when required to perform elsewhere.

This has been obvious when some dogs have been brought onto our school floor. Evidently, they have never been on a smooth surface like linoleum or hardwood floors because the shine and smoothness of the floor causes the dog to instinctively project its nails (which caused even more slipping) and clumsily crouch across the floor. Until the dog realized that relaxing and pulling in the nails would gain him traction, he simply was too afraid to move. Meanwhile his owners kept call him stupid.

Now what good would that to you or your dog if your both were in a predicament where the footing was different than that at home? Your dog should perform on all floor surfaces in a relaxed and confident manner. Either that or you will have to take with you a roll of rubber matting each time you walk with the dog.

The quality and control of any trained dog results from the acquired knowledge and ability on the part of the individual bringing his dog to class. Also, elimination of negative attitudes on the part of the owner does more to enhance the training than may be realized.

Humans receive praise through a compliment from the boss, a raise in pay, respect from co-workers. A dog gets rewards strictly from human contact and praise - verbal and physical. That shouldn't be so difficult to give.

So don't underestimate your dog because he is skittish on a shiny surface. Introduce him to new environments from time-to-time. Your dog will adapt to any situation probably faster and more readily than you and I would - as long as he has your support and praise for trying.

Enrollment down; teachers in demand

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

Fewer students are taking their seats in the local classrooms this year, but local school districts are hiring new teachers right and left.

All school districts in the areas served by the Associated Newspapers reported a slight decline in student enrollments for the 1986-87 school year, with the exception of the Plymouth-Canton Public Schools which are realizing a slight increase. Those same district, however, are feeling the effects of a large number of staff retirements last year and have been forced to hire teachers, the first time in up to 15 years for some districts.

Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations for the Plymouth-Canton district, said last week that almost all of the state school districts were hit with more retirements last year than in years past due to the introduction of an "80 and out" retirement package offered by the state Board of Education.

"We've hired better than 60 teachers this year for various reasons. Most of it is because of the heavy retirement last year," said Egli. "We have called back all of the teachers we had on layoff and are now hiring teachers right out of college."

The state program offered to teachers last year featured 80 as the magic number, Egli said. Teachers could retire if their age plus their years of service totaled at least 80, no matter how old they were.

Last year in the Canton district alone, Egli said, 25 teachers gave their retirement notice. Similar retirements were noted in other area districts where as many as 50 staff members turned in their blackboards for a taste of retirement.

Adding it all up

District	Hired	Students	Change
Inkster	2	2,444	-6%
Plymouth-Canton	60+	15,600	+1.3%
Romulus	9	5,100	-1%
Van Buren	0	6,400	-1.2%
Wayne-Westland	1	17,280	-.6%
Westwood	6	2,456	-1.6%

The hiring of a new teacher marks the end of a long era of teacher layoffs and surpluses, Dr. Dennis O'Neill, superintendent of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools, said last week, while it also offers a breath of fresh faces and new knowledge in the classrooms, faces that are coming right out of the university setting.

"We have had to hire some music teachers this year. It's been 14 years since we did that," O'Neill said. "I think just the fact that we have student teachers in the district shows the signs of a new trend. I think it's always great to have a balance of both young and old teachers."

But a balance may not be the new trend for elementary and secondary schools as teacher shortages are becoming the norm and hiring replacements may not be just something to boast about, Egli cautioned.

The school official explained that a shortage of teachers in the science and mathematics fields is being felt nationwide and the trend is already hitting home.

Aside from teachers, however, another trend is continuing to take shape in the local schools. Student enrollment in all area school districts except Plymouth-Canton declined about 1 percent from last year, a decline that keeps a downward trend in student population started in the early 1970s plunging deeper.

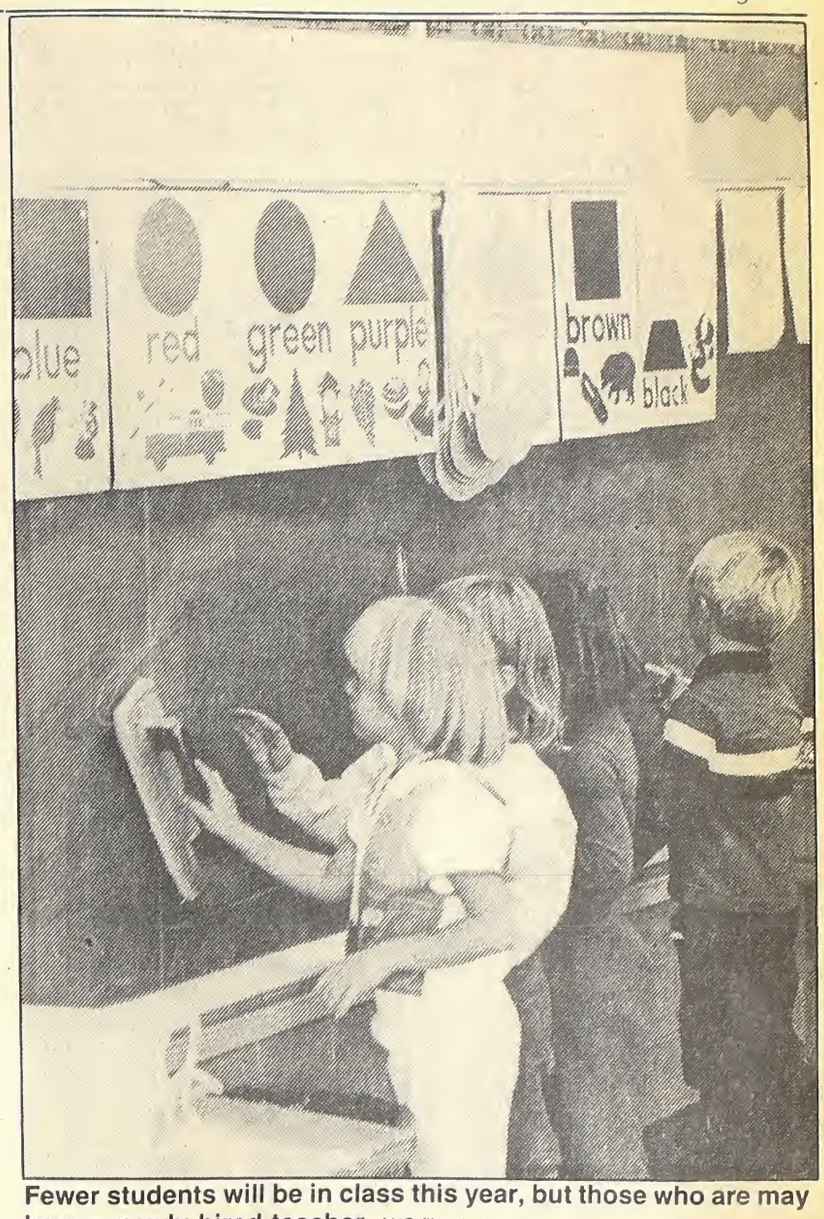
"We are predicting a slight decrease of less than 1 percent," said Dr. Terrel LeCesne of the Romulus Public Schools. "We have a third of our students who are transient. And, some high school students have found jobs over the summer and don't go back to school in the fall," he said of the reasons from the decline.

Despite fewer students graduating from the city high schools these days, one school administrator offered a glimmer of hope for the future – kindergarteners.

O'Neill reported that while student figures in the upper grade levels continue to taper off, enrollment in the kindergarten program has picked up a small amount of steam. However great that steam is, though, O'Neill doesn't expect the new surge of kids entering into the lower grades will ever equal the all-time high student populations of the late 1960s.

"We are very pleased that our kindergarten enrollment is over our projected figures," said O'Neill. "But, we still are going through a decline, and our upper grades are still shrinking."

"It's all just part of the process. I think we can count on an increase in student population in the future, but I don't think we would ever get to those (the late 1960s) numbers again."



Fewer students will be in class this year, but those who are may have a newly hired teacher. ANP file photo.

Belleville is becoming notorious, no less than three murders in as many months. - Saline Observer. Brother Hawkins (Saline editor), we hate to say that you exagerate but we can find one. Belleville is not the worst place in the world by any means. (Editor Begole seems to have forgotten the murder reported in the ENTERPRISE on June 9, 1886. That one and the one of Bert McConnel reported last week makes two.)

Pall Carl was the name inscribed by a young man upon the Fremont House register in this place (Wayne) last Sunday and directly under it someone added the following "The man who murdered Bert McConnel at Belleville, September 4, 1886." - Wayne Review. He seems to be able to change his name to suit the time. Karl Schmidt was the only authentic name we could get for him.

The examination of Loren Hayner of Milan for the robbery of Benjamine Elwell (Elwell gave the ground for the first Elwell School and his name to Elwell Road two weeks ago) was held here before Justice Steward last Friday. Mr. Elwell appeared against him but could not swear that Hayner was the guilty party and on the recommendation of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, George Gartner, the prisoner was discharged.

Belleville is a healthy place to live in for there has been no large fire here for a number of years.

The question for debate at the I.O.O.F. Lodge next Friday evening is Resolved that machinery is detrimental to the laboring classes.

The Rev. L. C. York (Methodist) has obtained superannuated relation (retirement age) in the Adrian conference.

Making a difference

A few weeks ago we were shocked to discover a historical cemetery overgrown with weeds, littered with debris and with many of its markers overturned and broken. Now we are pleased to learn that efforts are underway by the Michigan Cemetery Association to restore the final resting place of many early residents of the area to its original beauty and dignity by sponsoring a restoration program for the neglected cemetery.

The effort will come about, the association pointed out, because of "the recent interest and concern that has been generated by concerned citizens, the press" and other individuals.

Again, we can point out that we – we, as the press, and also, we as individuals – can make a difference when we take the time to see the needs of the community and to make our voices heard.

The William Ganong Cemetery, tucked away in a section of the Eloise property, had been set aside by the the land owner "as a final resting place for friends and loved ones" some time before the turn of the century. A plat book from the late 1870s shows the cemetery, which borders on Henry Ruff Road, as part of the Ganong farm. However, in recent years the cemetery became neglected and thoughtless individuals used it as a convenient dumping ground.

Our visit to the cemetery was a shocking one as we viewed the broken markers and removed debris from headstones to read the sentiments and tributes carved on them. It was a sad experience to read the loving verses dedicated to deceased fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers, and then to realize that those gravesites – so lovingly tended in bygone days – were now desecrated by broken bottles, remains of burned trash and piles of debris.

The article and accompanying photographs, which were published in August, prompted many calls from area residents. Some of the callers revealed that had family members who were buried in the cemetery and, like us, were shocked by the condition of the cemetery. We heard from women who told us that they once visited the cemetery to care for the gravesites of loved ones, but who were afraid to visit the cemetery in recent years. All voiced the hope that the cemetery could be restored to its former condition.

Aiding in the quest for help were Joseph Benyo of the Westland Historical Society and Harold Rediske Jr. of Uht Funeral Home. We applaud their efforts and share their satisfaction in knowing that not only is a historic site restored but that the memory of our early citizens will be preserved with dignity and honor for the coming years.

Uncle Scott

It was late in the day and they were tired when the call came. There was to be an important sales meeting back home. They looked at each other no doubt wondering if they could stay awake through the night for the long drive back.

With a sigh of resignation and a chuckle, they agreed to "give it a go" and head for familiar territory. I can only speculate what may have been in their minds, but I bet the thought of seeing the look of surprise on the faces of their counterparts when they completed the impossible drive home urged them on.

As they climbed into the Ford Fairlane, they felt safe and secure in the knowledge that this was one of the newest and safest products their company had yet produced. New padded visors and dashboards, and a steering column which would give on impact during a collision were features of which they were proud.

They talked briefly during this dwindling afternoon in the late 1950s and it was decided that Scott would drive. He was considered a very good driver, a man who knew when to push on and when to back off.

They drove for hours on their trek back to the Ford Motor Company office that was home base for them both. The meeting was important or they would not have been asked to take such a risk as to drive all night. They were company men, and they were proud of the company they worked for and the product they represented.

Sometime before midnight, Scott Hammann woke his sleeping passenger and asked him to drive. He sleepily agreed, and they pulled over to the side of the road and changed places. Several hours later, while Scott slept, the driver beside him slipped into slumber.

State police later surmised that the driver must have fallen asleep miles before the curve in the road that the car never negotiated. There were no skid marks and the vehicle was clearly traveling at a very high rate of speed. It must have been in order to cause the damage the crash inflicted.

The front wheels were torn from the car when it struck a utility pole and sheared it in half. Upon impact, the car burst into flames.

The driver was unconscious and slumped over the wheel which had performed as tested, and collapsed on impact, but his ribs had still cracked like twigs. It was his side of the car that was being engulfed in flames.

Scott had his leg broken and was badly lacerated but he was awake. Instinctively, he pushed the door open and rolled out of the car door amidst the flames fueled by the ruptured gas tanks which pierced the darkness. As he tried to regain his bearings, he realized, it seems he was safe, but alone.

The demolished new Ford in which they had only hours before felt safe, lay next to an embankment. From the dirt, gravel and grass inside the gaping wounds in his leg and from the accounts of the truck driver that found the unconscious Scott hovering over his injured friend, police investigators reconstructed the scene.

Scott dragged himself around the car, pulled the driver's door open and pulled the unconscious, critically injured driver out. Too exhausted to pull himself or his companion to safety, or up the embankment, he covered the other man with his body shielding him from the searing heat of the flames.

I was just a kid when the knock came at the door that night. The police came to notify us that my uncle was badly injured and that my parents should drive to the hospital to see him. He lasted but a matter of hours and succumbed to the toll the burns had taken on his body. His companion survived.

That man never had the courage to face or even phone my aunt after Uncle Scott died.

Resident wants action

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to your story on the vandalism on Wayne Road. The owners of these businesses are absolutely correct when they accuse youths of these crimes.

I know because I live in the area and have watched for years what they are now complaining about. Some of these "so called youths" are in their early 20s. I see them hang out in gangs every night on my way home at 1:30 a.m.

We have seen them start fires and stand next to them and get doped up only to start gang fights and have junkies bleed to near death on our porches. Some of these kids getting involved with their drug business are as young as 11 and 12 years old.

They have broken into our houses and terrorized young children on our block.

Call the police, you say? Ha! They do nothing. All (the youths) are under drinking age. Last time I looked, drugs are illegal, too! But, the Westland Police Department fails to make any arrests or citations if they come at all.

So what I'm saying – this problem has been going on for years. Only now it is spreading. The kids are getting older and have found other ways to obtain their drug money (breaking into businesses). I have proof of all my claims, but little good it does without the backing of our law enforcement agency.

I hereby call for the mayor to look into this. How about enforcement of laws already on the books in regard to single family residences, drugs, alcohol, curfews and minors living alone.

If the citizens of Westland can't get help from the city, maybe we should take it upon ourselves to do something about it. May everyone who reads this and has the same troubles contact city hall and keep calling until something is done to rid our city of this vermin. Make it Westland again, not Wasteland.

(Editor's note: The above letter was signed and the name of the writer is on file. It was the judgement of the editor not to print the name of the writer and also to omit a portion of the letter which named two suspected dope houses in order to protect the writer from possible reprisals or harrassment.)

Apathy angers local reader

To the Editor:

On June 25, 1986, you wrote in your 'Flying Solo Column', that a free hat doesn't make a free press.

I would think that dozens of people would have responded to it, for within the article you spoke more truths than most newspaper editorials publish in a year. You should be complimented on your style of writing, your insight and your courage.

Remember when a powerful man from Russia said, "We will bury you"? Well, while we dream away in front of our televisions and video movies, drink our beer and shrug off going to the polls, let the rest of the world go by, there are those in our society who do not. In 1940 subversive organizations had to register with the Department of Justice.

Now, those who were subversive then, or their students, sit in the seats of the United States Senate and the House of Representatives and probably in every state government, and remember, a devout communist or fascist is religiously fanatical in the belief that they are right and that they will overcome in the end. Hundreds, maybe thousands of Marxists teach our young men and women in colleges and universities throughout our land.

Sure a lot of changes have been made since 1940, yes?

Corrado says thanks for help

To the Editor:

On behalf of Westland's "North-End" community, I would like to take this opportunity to express sincere thanks to all of the people who have helped in the creation of Corrado Park.

The park is a reality and our community efforts were realized this week by the installation and dedication of the flagpole and United States flag, presented by the Harris-Kehrer VFW Post 3323, and the State of Michigan flag, presented by State Rep. Justine Barns.

Special appreciation for an outstanding dedication ceremony is extended to Deloris Mohammed and the Franklin High School Pom-Pon Girls, Chris and Patrick Howes for their effort in assembling our neighborhood Cub Scout and Boy Scout troops, Charlie Hunter and the Harris-Kehrer VFW Post 3323 Honor Guard, Mayor "Trav" Griffin and his administrative staff for their faithful and consistent support, Parks & Recreation Director George Gillies and his staff for maintaining Corrado Park, and "extra-special" thanks to State Rep. Justine Barns for her generous personal donation that enabled us to purchase the flagpole.

Corrado Park will truly enhance our neighborhood thanks to the commitment and dedication of the neighbors and community leaders who recognized the need for a recreational area in the "North-End".

People who want to open a new business, or expand their existing operation, must have good economic sense, energy, and dedication. Most of all they need enough money to start strong and sustain themselves.

The usual source of start-up capital is a bank loan. Naturally, banks wouldn't want to lend money to a new business if they thought it might by "risky". A bank will often refuse a loan if the applicant doesn't have a previous business background, or if the proposed enterprise is very new or unconventional. And, unfortunately, banks sometimes have seemed reluctant to make new business loans to members of radical or ethnic minorities, to women, or to persons they see as too young or too old. As a result, many of these people with good economic sense and energy were never able to get their businesses started.

But in Michigan, an innovative approach has improved the prospects of these new "risky" businesses. The state's new "Capital Access Program" is designed to encourage banks to lend the small businesses the money they need to start up and move foward. When a loan is made under this program, a special reserve account is also established, with money contributed by the state's Strategic Fund, the bank, and the borrower. The money in this account will be used to help reimburse the bank if the borrower is unable to pay. With payment assured, the banks aren't taking as much of a risk.

It's estimated that each dollar that the state puts into the Capital Access Program will generate $20. This means that the initial $5 million from the Strategic Fund will help provide $100 million in bank loans to businesses that might otherwise never get the chance to create new jobs and contribute to Michigan's economic recovery.

A bank in East Lansing was the first to make a small business loan under the Capital Access Program. It enabled a Michigan firm to purchase a larger Texas-based firm of the same type. The Michigan firm was able to expand operations and help our state prosper.

So far, 20 Michigan banks have agreed to participate in the Capital Access Program. Officials from the Strategic Fund will be meeting with other banks, encouraging them to join. This innovate program is the first of its kind anywhere in the country, and its potential is almost unlimited. Now more new businesses can get started, hire workers, and help the state economy. Cooperation between the state, the banks, and the borrowers can help take the risk out of small business.

He had been at the wheel and had caused, unintentionally, the death of her husband, yet he was alive because of an act of heroism by the same man.

I remember the funeral and, in particular, the new Fords lined up that the company had supplied for the occasion. My aunt never remarried, and alone, she raised her two sons without the benefit of their father.

Years later I saw copies of the police photos taken the morning following the accident. I've never been to Lima, Ohio where the accident occurred, but found myself thinking about it all recently while studying a map of Ohio for a drive I have to make soon.

We all find our lives depend upon the proper functioning of the automobile in which we ride or drive. We take it for granted. We grumble about wearing safety belts or simply ignore them. We see occasional fender-benders, but fool ourselves into thinking that the big ones only happen to others.

Auto engineering has come a long way. Our cars are safer, thanks to federal mandate ("Government is to do what people can not or will not do for themselves"). I, too, tend to forget momentarily until coincidence brings back to mind the horror, pain and tragic loss caused by pushing when we should back off.

When I think about drivers impaired by alcohol out there, aiming cars like a weapon at other innocent and unsuspecting drivers, I get very angry.

Simply said, I ask you, dear friends, drive safely. Slow down, buckle up, don't tailgate, don't drink and drive and when you are too tired to drive, get off the road.

The price of failure can be irreversible.

See you next week.

MARRIAGE: A different style for 1980s

More couples unite second time around

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

If love can be better "the second time around," then why can't a wedding be more festive, elaborate and joyous the second time than the first?

According to Debra Gotthart, merchandising editor of Bride's Magazine, there are really no obstacles – considering good taste and fashion – that would prevent women from having a formal wedding "the second time around." Only one taboo remains, she said. The bridal train, which is a symbol of purity, is traditionally only worn at a first wedding. Brides, however, may choose to wear white or ivory for a second marriage and to arrange their wedding and, subsequent, reception with as much enthusiasm and joy as they did – or, perhaps, didn't have the opportunity to do – when they married for the first time.

Gotthart and Lisa Comegna, merchandising associate, were at Westland Mall on Saturday in connection with the Fall Bridal Fashion Extra. Both women were available to provide personal consultations and answer questions posed by brides-to-be.

"A wedding is a new beginning. It's a celebration," Gotthard said. "Therefore, it should be the couple's day and they should plan their wedding as a celebration of that new beginning."

Gotthart and Comegna noted the emphasis on "couple" rather than on the wedding being "a one woman show."

"If the couple is planning to spend the rest of their lives together, it seems logical that they should plan the wedding together and both take responsibility," Gotthart said. "Also, if it is a second marriage, they are probably sharing expenses for the wedding and it is even more important that both have input into the plans."

A second marriage would indicate a more mature couple, she said, and so it is expected that they would be more sophisticated in their tastes and, perhaps, more practical and value – conscious. The result, she continued, is that couples "know what they want and how much they want to spend for it."

For example, Gotthart said, many women are looking at gowns both for themselves and for their attendants that can be used again for another occasion.

The royal weddings of Prince Charles and Diana and Prince Andrew and Sarah have prompted an interest in "romantic" gowns and more elaborate ceremonies, according to the magazine representatives. However, they said, lace gowns are always "in" for weddings.

Since the formerly-married bride has the same selection of gowns as the first-time bride, Gotthart and Comegna noted that the variety of bridal looks is almost unlimited. Gaining popularity are the all-white weddings and, for the more sophisticated, the all-black wedding, they said. There are velvets and lames in addition to more traditional bridal gown fabrics, and the white pump of the past is being replaced by beaded, tapestry and metallic shoes.

"Many women are choosing sheaths or other body-conscious looks," Gotthart commented.

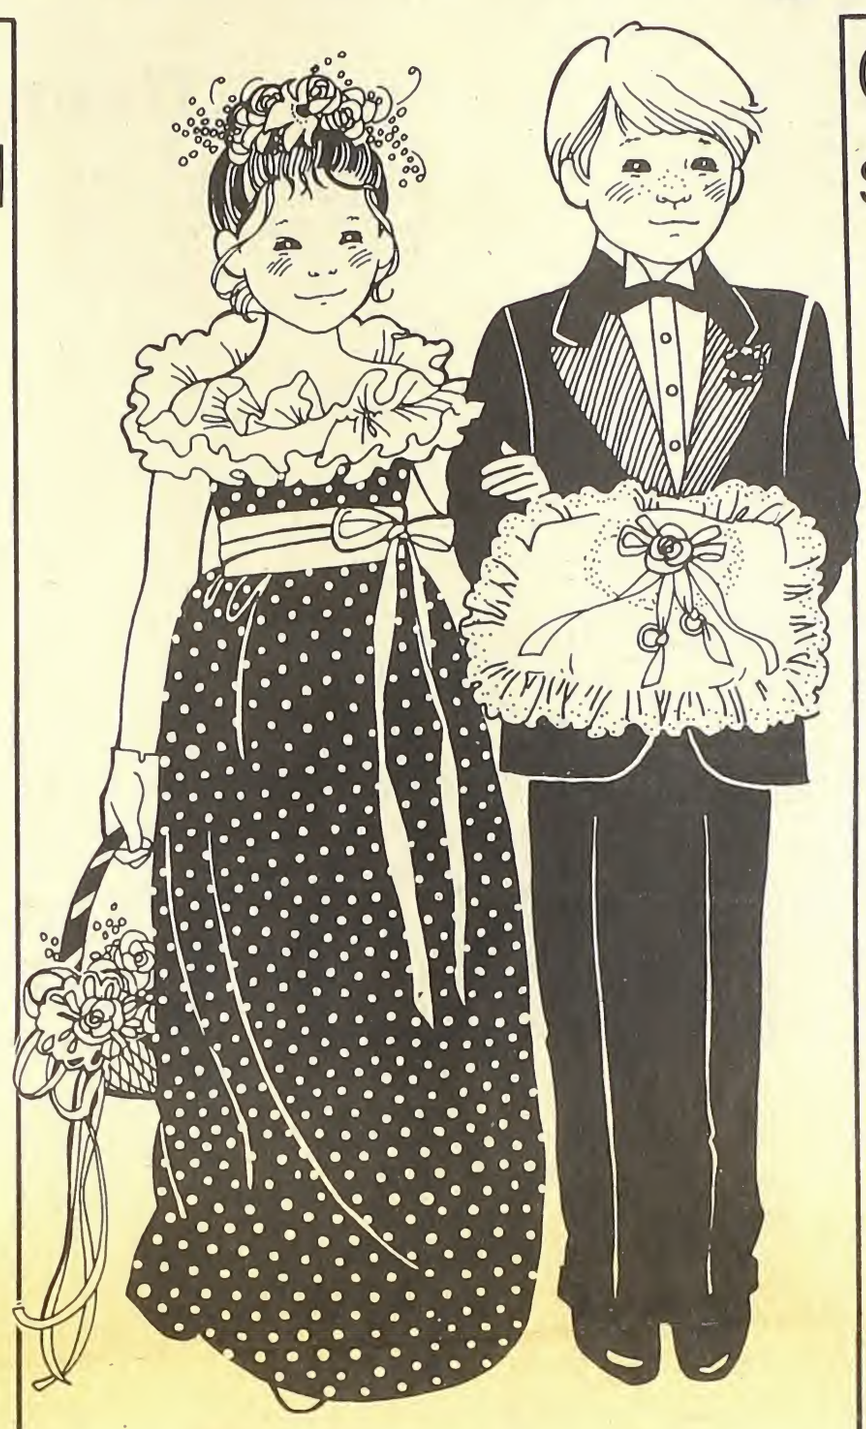
Bigger pieces of jewelry are gaining popularity, they said, with bugle beads, rhinestones and pearls in favor.

Not to forget the men who are sharing the day of celebration, Gotthart and Comegna see men as being more aware of color, fabric and texture and this interest being reflected in their tuxedos, ties and cumberbunds.

Brides and their attendants are more practical this season, often opting for gowns with "a second life." For example, some short length gowns may be accessorized for wear at a holiday cocktail party. More and more, the versatility of the gown is being taken into consideration when the purchase is made.

An important part of the wedding wardrobe is the trousseau. This should include any special outfits needed for the honeymoon trip and for entertaining that the couple will do after the wedding. Although may women today have an extensive wardrobe for their work and social life, most new brides will find that they need special clothing items to reflect their new lifestyle.

Bridal fashions take on an individual flavor from the area of the country, according to fashion experts Debbie Gotthart and Lisa Comegna. For example, Gotthart said, the weddings in the South tend to be very elaborate, while the brides in the East are usually more sophisticated.



Apartment life falls to home-buying trend

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

Marriage doesn't have to signal the apartment-style of living usually associated with newlyweds anymore, according to Kenneth Ray, a broker at Earl Keim Realty in Canton, who said that many couples today are saving large chunks of money before the wedding and can afford their own home.

"I think right now you see a larger number of newlyweds trying to get into a house than they did 20 years ago. They want to get into a house as soon as possible, and we see a lot of kids who get wedding gifts from parents or grandparents for a down payment on a house," Ray said. "I think the parents are beginning to realize that they have to help the kids somehow."

Unlike 10 or 20 years ago, newlyweds in many cases already have a home purchased, furnished and ready for living prior to the big day, Ray said. Loans for the homes can be submitted to most banks as a joint application even if the couple are not yet married, Ray continued, as long as the two have clearly determined that they will be married on a specific date in the future.

Although most loans for starter houses will be approved for couples who both have stable jobs, have good credit ratings and are able to put 10 percent of the price of the house on the table at the start, huge mansions of most every couple's dreams should be avoided. At least at the start, Ray said.

"When you set up a new lifestyle and set up a new home, you already have a lot of things to worry about," said Ray. "I don't recommend that kids

Clergy help couples see the real future

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

Clergymen agree that most prospective brides and grooms are looking at marriage through "rose-colored glasses" when they approach them to perform their wedding ceremonies.

Couples tend to shrug off their potential problems with the comment, "but, we love each other," the area clergy said. However, contrary to the belief that love conquers all, the pending marriages require preparation and dedication to avoid becoming a tragic statistic (half of all marriages end in divorce).

The Rev. Dr. Jerry Yarnall, pastor of St. Michael's Lutheran Church in Canton, meets at least four times with the engaged couple prior to the wedding to look at the future relationship.

He does not perform a wedding without the pre-marriage counseling session, but is flexible on the number of meetings "based on the individual needs of the couple," he said.

When people marry for the second time, Yarnall said, "they have the difficulty of dealing with children from the previous marriage and with their ex-spouses. There are issues of discipline and the role of step-parenting, he said, and the difficulty of establishing a relationship when there may be a "tug of war" between the families. All of these add to the normal adjustment problems in marriages, according to the pastor.

The Rev. Robert Millar, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Wayne, finds himself called upon to perform numerous weddings. Since the focus of the denomination is community outreach, he said, it is predictable that many couples would approach him to perform their wedding ceremony.

Millar does not host formal pre-marriage classes but does spend time with the couples to let them know what the ceremony is and means. In his discussions with the pair, Millar determines whether there are any issues or problems that may require additional counseling. At times, he said, he may refer the couple to a counselor with specialized skills in marriage counseling.

Usually, Millar noted, when people marry for the second time they are aware of the custody and visitation procedures for their stepchildren and the children are acquainted with the "new parent." One way in which Millar attempts to make the transition to the stepfamily more meaningful is to include the children in a portion of the ceremony where the youngsters (12 or older) can pledge to accept and honor the new stepparent.

The Rev. Neil D. Cowling, pastor of Kirk of Our Savior United Presbyterian Church in Westland, prefers two to three pre-marriage counseling sessions. He finds it is sometimes difficult to get the couple to turn away from the "love conquers all" attitude and deal with potential problems realistically.

Cowling believes his background and experience has provided him with sensitivity to deal with the problems of second marriages. First, he said, he has the couple look back at the problems that brought about the break in the first relationship and then try to determine whether those conditions still exist. If so, he said, the second marriage will be on shaky grounds. He also sees problems in dealing with children from previous marriages, especially when there is tension between the natural parents.

The Westland minister said a new order of service, which omits the giving away of the bride, includes a statement of mutual support from the family and congregation. The usage of this form of the wedding ceremony can provide a way for stepchildren and other family members to feel that they are part of the new family and understand the importance of their support, Cowling said.

The Rev. (Father Bill) Immel, pastor of St. Richard's Catholic Church in Westland, said most of the couples he marries prefer the option of the six-month counseling session to a pre-marriage weekend retreat.

Father Bill calls the workbooks in the counseling session "an eye opener" for many of the couples who are planning to marry. The couples study the books together and fill out answers to questions separately for later discussion, he said.

"Writing the answers helps them to think things out," Father Bill said. "They compare answers and we talk about them together."

Wedding costs, ideas differ from 1960

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

How does the average wedding today compare to 20 years ago? According to an editor of Brides magazine, the resemblance might be hard to detect.

Cost is perhaps the biggest change, Barbara Tober, editor-in-chief of the publication said. Many of the luxurious ceremonies today top the $8,000 mark, while the average wedding features an at-least $6,000 bill. But, at the same time, Tober continued, those figures shouldn't deter couples from staging the party due to expense.

"The wonderful thing about weddings is that they can take so many different forms," Tober said. "The couple who hire a country club and float gardenias in the pool, and the one who host a backyard barbecue are both just as married."

Tober offered a few tips for the engaged couple. Those include setting priorities early on, perhaps making the wedding unique in one or two ways and then economizing on the other "traditional" items. Starting to plan early is another suggestion which can be a money saver as well, Tober said.

Read contracts, Tober said, and watch for agreements that say they will take care of everything. Watch for hidden costs like overtime for the band and inflated prices for additional photographs.

And finally, try to redistribute the cost of the event on both families. Tober explained that the trend today is changing so that the groom's family picks up the tab for the flowers, the music and the liquor. Another popular idea, she continued, is for one family to pay for the ceremony (flowers, church rental, limousines) and the other pick up the cost of the reception.

But cost and the way in which the wedding is financed are not the only ways weddings are changing from 20 years ago. A few of the changing statics in marriages include:

- The season. June isn't the only popular month to be wed anymore. June, with 12.3 percent of all weddings, is followed close behind by August (10.6 percent), September (10 percent), October (8.1 percent) and December (7.9 percent). January, with 5.1 percent of all weddings, is the least favorite month;
- The divorce rate started to decline in 1982, the first drop in 20 years;
- Men and women are waiting longer to get married. Most men in 1984 were 25 years old, women were 23. In 1963, most men were 22 and most women were 20;
- Half of the men and women being married today both have jobs, compared to only 30 percent in 1960;
- Combined start-up incomes for newly-married couple today are $40,400 on the average;
- Most couple plan to have two children;
- Three in 10 women marry a man with a different religious background;
- Four out of 10 brides are either virgins at marriage or have had sexual relations with only their future husbands;
- The average honeymoon lasts eights and one-half days;
- The favorite honeymoon spot is the Caribbean, followed by Hawaii, Florida, Bahamas, Poconos and Europe; and
- Couples spend 5.1 percent of their marriage expenditures on engagement/wedding rings, 11.6 percent on honeymoon travel, 30.8 percent on wedding apparel, invitation, flowers, reception, photos and gifts and 52.5 percent on home furnishings and equipment.

Despite the rising costs and change in the way the wedding is planned and financed, Tober commented that marriage has become the hit of the mid-1980's. So popular, in fact, she said, that marriage today may be the beginning of a new trend toward commitment and togetherness and away from living alone and being single.

"Marriage is alive and well in the United States and, according to sociologists, will continue to prosper throughout this century," said Tober. "The public commitment of two people in love . . . the rites of passage from unattached to totally committed is a human drama unequaled by any other in our lifetime."

Patrick - Giangrossi

Dawn Marie Patrick of Filbert Street, Westland, and Richard Lee Giangrossi of New York were united in marriage July 26 at St. Theodore's Catholic Church of Westland.

A crowd of 50 guests and music performed by the bride's uncle provided the setting for the double-ring ceremony. The service was officiated by the Rev. Goodrow.

A scripture verse from the book of Genesis accented the ceremony and was read by the maid of honor, Becky Hutchins, a cousin of the bride.

The bridal gown featured large pearls and lace with a hat. Pearls and sequins cascaded down from the veil and ruffles lined the train.

The bride carried a lace fan with cascading flowers and a boquet with pearls and orchids in the center.

The bridesmaids for the occasion were Cheryl Jones, Laura White and Joan Wukster.

The groom's best man was Jobie Patrick, the bride's brother, while Bill Lucius and Dale Hutchins served as ushers.

A reception followed a intermission-cocktail party at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle. The reception was staged at the New Hawthorne Valley Country Club and was attended by about 100 guests.

The two traveled to San Francisco and later to Lake Tahoe for their honeymoon. They have made their new home in Staten Island, N.Y.

The new Mrs. Giangrossi is a 1980 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School. She presently works as an executive assistant with a major restaurant chain in New York.

Consultants 'save time'

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

The big wedding day is only one year away. There are plans to make, halls to rent, invitations to print and outfits to purchase.

But, mom's got a job, dad does too. The bride's working full time and the groom is working too. Who will plan the event?

How about a wedding consultant?

Such a scenario isn't so uncommon in the career world of the 1980s, according to Susan Lobsiger, who is making of business of planning other people's weddings.

Started about a year and one-half ago, the business has blossomed into what may become the future of wedding planning, Lobsiger said, as long as men and women both continue to crowd the workplace and have no time for planning a party.

"I got into this a couple of years ago when I planned my own wedding by myself. I would have loved to have somebody to help me with it, and that's why I thought of this," Lobsiger explained.

Clients of "Susan's Weddings Consultants" can opt for only a small amount of help in securing a hall or a florist, or they can pull out the stops and let Lobsiger do the all footwork. The only difference? A few hundred dollars in consultant fees, but, nonetheless, sometimes worth every penny of it.

"When you're planning for a wedding, a lot of the planning depends on what time of year it is in. If you are a June bride, you should start planning at least one year before," Lobsiger said. "But to be safe in any month, one year is usually best."

Another factor in planning, Lobsiger said, is the size of the wedding. Parties for 150 people or less do not require near as much planning, she said, as those in which the guest list will top 250 or 300 people.

Although most people know from the start about renting the hall, securing a caterer and hiring a photographer, many people forget about some of the "small" points of wedding planning, Lobsiger said. Those "small details" may include arranging accommodations for out-of-town guests for the wedding day or getting the church reserved well ahead of time for the big day.

Most halls are booked about one year in advance, Lobsiger said. Churches can many times be equally busy for weddings, while the more elegant and bizarre wedding sites such as Greenfield Village often times require reservations more than one year in advance.

"Reserving the date is the most important thing with the florist, the photographer, the church and the hall. You can go back later and discuss details, but you need to get the date reserved early," Lobsiger said. "A lot of people don't realize how long it takes to order a wedding gown, either. You're talking 12-16 weeks, and that's barring anything from going wrong."

But who needs a planner? Mom can do it, or the bride and groom can make all the arrangements in between jobs. Can't they?

"The big reason people go to a consultant is time. They don't have the time to run around and get everything arranged. A lot of people say 'What about the mother of the bride?' But she's usually working, too," Lobsiger said.

"Hiring a consultant takes some of the pressure off the bride and groom. People are less harried and things seem to go smoother. People are going to consultants more now than they did 10 years ago because they just don't have the time and the energy to plan their wedding the way they would like it."

Lobsiger will make all of the plans, come to the house on the wedding day, attend the wedding, the reception and see to it that the photographs are returned all for only $1,500. A large chunk of money, perhaps, but then what's another $1,500 added to the average wedding which costs $6,000.

What's another $1,500, you ask? Lobsiger calls it peace of mind.

"When I was planning my own wedding I was just so envolved," Lobsiger said. "I was doing something every minute. Now when I look back I say I wish I had someone to call and say 'Can you help me out with something?'

"I would have loved it!"

Homes

stretch themselves with a huge house payment because it's just that much harder to get their lives started."

Ray explained that most newlyweds who have two incomes are able to afford houses in the $40,000-$50,000 price range. Some, he continued, are looking at slightly larger-scale accommodations that carry up to $80,000 price tags. Whatever the price, however, the important thing to consider is the size of the monthly payment and the way that figure fits in to the household budget, the real estate broker said.

Ray cautions most newly-engaged couples against making major purchases immediately before their wedding such as cars, boats or unnecessary luxury items. These materials, although nice to drive and tout about, can many times decrease the chances for approval on a home loan and considerably lower the affordable price of a new home.

For an example, Ray calculated that a $50,000 home with $5,000 down would average around $525 per month in house payments. Those payments would be based on a 30-year fixed financing period, the amount of financing time the real estate broker recommends for all newly-married couples.

But such a figure shouldn't drive newlyweds away from homes and back into the apartments, Ray continued, as buying a home could be the best investment for every newly-married couple. Even if the home carries a retail value of only $30,000, that value is sure to escalate and represent a valuable decision years down the road.

"The first thing I always recommend to any couple getting married is to get into a home. Let's get started on something," said Ray. "There is not a better investment than buying a house."

"I like to recommend the Redford, Westland and southern Livonia areas. They can buy an excellent starter home with three bedrooms in the $40,000 and mid-$50,000 price range," Ray explained. "I think Redford is an excellent place to start because you really get an investment on your money."

And investment, according to the realtor, is the name of the homebuying game.

Leo Kalota
Age: 57
Married 34 years
Occupation: retired
Hobbies: Swimming, golfing, hunting, fishing and gardening.
Quote: I'd emphasize that regardless of their ultimate career choice, education prepares you for whatever you want to do.

Fresh out of high school, Leo Kalota began his career as a bank messenger. Forty-one years later, he became vice-president of the bank and with that promotion, manager of Manufacturers National Bank in Romulus.

Last April, Kalota retired after 18 years at the Romulus branch. More than 200 people turned out for a retirement party at the Dearborn Inn this summer. He said, "The gathering was a real nice tribute."

Luckily for the community of Romulus, he did not retire from the several organizations of which he is still a board member: the Chamber of Commerce, the Central Business District, the Building Authority, the School Finance Committee and the Downtown Development Authority. If there's been a noticable difference in the appearance of downtown Romulus, Leo Kalota could be the reason.

Still, Kalota has found time for a family and his own community. He and his wife of 34 years, Marge, raised their seven children in Novi Township where he has been township supervisor for 14 years.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: Could you tell our readers something about your early years and how you started in the banking business?

KALOTA: My family lived near Southfield and Warren where I was born and raised, the youngest of three boys. I began my banking career in high school when I worked as a bank messenger in something similar to a co-op program. I graduated from MacKenzie High School in 1946 and joined the army later that year. In the rank of sergeant and as part of the occupational forces stationed in Nagasaki and Hiroshima, Japan during their rehabilitation, we made sure all the articles of the treaty were carried out. I returned to the states in 1948.

ANP: Any trouble adjusting from soldier to civilian life?

KALOTA: Not really. I worked nights at Industrial National Bank in Detroit in the distribution and bookkeeping departments and studied business administration at University of Detroit. I became a clerk, teller, and finally an assistant branch manager. In 1952, I married my wife, Marge and began what I consider my first career. We were neighbors and have known each other since we were 16 years old.

ANP: It would appear that both your personal and business life really took off at this time.

KALOTA: I guess so. My wife and I would eventually raise seven children, five boys and two girls. Six graduated from college and one started last week. We have two grandchildren, Daniella and Aubrey.

On the business side, in 1955, Industrial National Bank merged with Manufacturers National Bank and I became an assistant branch started with 38 branches and when I left that department, there were 70 offices. That's a lot of growth activity! In 1965, I became an officer of the bank. For the next two years I headed the trust department. From 1966-67, I was promoted second vice-president of the Branch Department and later, of the Marketing Department where I coordinated public relations and advertising. In fact, I worked on the acquistion of Romulus State Bank as a new branch location. In 1968, I was assigned to that branch as its manager. In 1972, I became a full vice-president.

ANP: So how did you like Romulus?

KALOTA: I loved it. There was a lot of growth in the Romulus and the bank's assets grew many times over. It was certainly great to be part of that growth.

As chairman and later secretary of the Building Authority, I'm proud to say we were instrumental in building the city hall, library and 34th District Court. I've been past president of the Chamber of Commerce and I'm still a member. While I was member of the Central Business District, the new post office was built and new sidewalks and downtown landscaping were initiated. Much progress in revitalizing downtown was made.

I've been a member of the Huron Valley Boy Scouts for many years and I'm a member of the Knights of Columbus.

ANP: What do you intend to do and do you ever find time for yourself?

KALOTA: I still enjoy swimming, golfing, hunting, fishing and gardening. Marge and I tend a quarter-acre garden on our property and that keeps us busy. Although it wasn't as good a year as expected. To be honest, I plan to start a second career, probably in the area of finance, real estate or sales. Those are my interests.

ANP: What advice would offer our young people?

KALOTA: I'd tell 'em to get a good education. I'd emphasize that regardless of their ultimate career choice, education prepares you for whatever you want to do. Never hesitate to learn anything.

Flu shots offered for seniors

Influenza shots are currently being offered at three local centers through the Wayne County Health Department.

Reports show that the desease typically affects senior citizens, especially those with cardiovascular, pulmonary and/or renal system disorders. In fact, more than 90 percent of the deaths that have occurred during influenza season have been among people 65 years and older, one reported said.

"The typical influenza season runs from November to April, but the maximum portection provided by the vaccine occured when it is given early before the influenza season starts," said Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk of the county Health Department. "People under the age of 35 with the previously listed chronic conditions should consider obtaining this vaccination as well."

The shots are available for a $2 requested donation, but indigent citizens may receive a waiver of the charge, according to Health Department officials. The donations will be used to purchase additional vaccine.

For more information, call the department at 467-3324.

Pickin' time

Apple Charlie has become a familiar face to many residents who pay the jolly, soft-spoken New Boston man a visit each fall at his apple orchards and cider mill.

Legally known as Charles Grover – but known better as Apple Charlie by the hordes of schoolchildren who have visited his business on South Huron Road for years – Charlie has taken on the responsibility his father gave him of running the family business and keeping secret a few of the old time-tested recipes which have made the cider mill and bakery renowned to many local residents.

Founded in 1949, South Huron Orchards and Cider Mills, as it was then dubbed, became Apple Charlie's later in years, a new name but not a new recipe for success.

All of the apples, peaches, berries and pears sold at the orchards are raised on the 149-acre Grover Farm in New Boston. Those same fruits of the family labors are then squeezed by old-time apple presses and churned into a blend of five flavors that Charlie calls apple cider, while others call it delicious.

Some 5,000 cars will file in the mill on a sunny fall weekend for a taste of the juice and a nibble or two on the fresh breads and baked goods, all produced by Charlie's wife and their children using the same old recipe Charlie's parents used in 1949.

But modern technology isn't totally absent from the setting as computerized checkouts speed every purchase and a hi-low sits in the dock to haul the apples and the crates. But, even those few modern essentials are overshadowed by the sounds of the oid apple press, the sounds of the old oven or the sight of grandpa's hat perched atop a peg inside the mill.

But, then again, why worry about the historic authenticity when ice-cold cider awaits to whet the whistle and piping hot donuts are just minutes from melting in the mouth? Charlie will reassure all of his customers of the cider mill history, but that's only after they have thoroughly indulged in a tasty treat or two.

Please pass the cider.

'Van Buren' lawsuit settled out of court

A multi-million dollar lawsuit filed by a mobile home park developer against the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees has apparently been settled.

At a special meeting of the board Monday night, township attorneys recommended - and the board concurred - to settle the suit Louis el Chonen for $275,000.

The lawsuit, filed in 1975 by the plantiffs, el Chonen of New York and Southfield developers David and Jacob Cohen, stemmed from the township board's denial of an application to build a mobile park on 100 acres of land at Rawsonville and Bog.

After a lengthy court battle, Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman ordered the property rezoned and issued orders that the board provide all necessary documentation and permits for the construction of the park.

Although under court order to do so, the seven township board members refused to carry out Judge Kaufman's edict and in 1975 all seven members of the board were arrested and jailed for contempt.

Later, the "Van Buren 7" as the board members were called by the news media, relented and signed the documents. Kaufman's decision was later upheld by the state Court of Appeals, according to township officials, but the lawsuit charging that the delays hurt the developer financially was initiated.

The 11-year litigation has taxed the township financially and faced with the possibly that the township could lose the case and without insurance liability to cover the damages, township officials decided to settle.

The two parties met in chambers of the U.S. District Court Judge Richard Suhrheinrich and settled the issue.

"This has been a cloud over our township for 11 years now," said R. Lynne Hamilton, township supervisor. "We are happy it is now history."

Township attorneys and lawyers for el Chonen and Cohen were not available for comment before press time.

Undefeated Wayne is off to perfect 2-0 start

Zebras blank Ann Arbor Huron, 21-0; travel to Lincoln Park

Off to its best start in recent years, Wayne Memorial shut out a strong Ann Arbor Huron, 21-0, Friday night, and will travel to Lincoln Park in quest of its third conseuctive victory of the 1986 campaign.

But, Coach Chuck Howton warns that Lincoln Park "and the downriver communities, in general, have an excellent tradition of fielding outstanding football teams."

"They (Lincoln Park) will be tough," Howton commented. "They are an aggressive football club."

Lincoln Park will carry a 1-1 record into Friday night's confrontation with Wayne. The Parkers dropped their non-league opener to neighboring Melvindale, but bounced back to embarrass Monroe 21-7 Friday night in the Wolverine "A" Conference opener for both schools.

Wayne avenged last week's setback at the hands of the River Rats as the Zebras put together a solid offensive and defensive performance.

After an exchange of fumbles, Wayne hit paydirt with a 40-yard halfback option pass play from Lewis Davis to Ken Dropiewski, the speedy wide receiver. Doug Quartuccio then connected on his first of three point-afters.

Early in the second stanza, on the fourth down and one situation, the Zebras tried a bit of trickery as punter Steve Warner passed to junior wide receiver, Tony Robertson, for an apparent first down. However, the gain was nullified by a Wayne illegal procedure. On Warner's ensuing punt, the River Rats fumbled and Robertson recovered on the Huron 27 yard line.

With Davis and tailback Darren Tatum alternating carries behind the outstanding offensive line, the Zebras drove to the 8-yard line. From there, Tatum found a huge hole on the right side and he raced into the end zone.

Ann Arbor took the following kick-off and mounted an offensive threat which carried them to the Zebras 25 yard line with about three minutes to go until the halftime. But, a key third down quarterback sack by defensive end Fred Horne and linebacker Jody Caruana dampened the River Rats' scoring drive. Safety Mike Heard then picked off the first of his two interceptions of the evening. The Wayne offensive contingent then marched off the re-

Back-pedaling to give his receivers time to get free, Belleville quarterback David Ostrowski (10) led a fired-up Tiger machine against the defending champs, Trenton, Friday night and came away with a strong performance.

Glenn pulls 'thorn' Northville from sides

By KEITH DeMOLAY
ANP Special Writer

Perseverance, according to the dictionary, is "never giving up what one has set out to do."

For the Rockets of Westland John Glenn, that perseverance, or that knack for not giving up, paid off last Friday as the undefeated Rockets withstood a stubborn Northville defense to claim their second win of the season, 23-3.

"It was a good win over a pretty good Northville team," said Glenn's Chuck Gordon.

"It was a hard-fought game. You need to get in some of those to see how a team responds and we're pleased to come away with the victory."

The Rockets entered the game coming off a 35-0 victory over Belleville while Northville was trying to regroup after a 42-14 debacle at Brighton. But the history of this series has been a tough, bare-knuckle affair like the 1977 game decided, 10-7, by a Tim Ruark touchdown in Gordon's first year as coach, or the 1983 game in which Northville scored the winner in the last seconds to secure a 14-10 victory.

This game was no different as both teams took turns moving the ball up-and-down the field in the first quarter. Glenn, behind the strong legs of Paul Beasley and Ken Jones, moved the ball on the Mustang defense

Another tough loss for Franklin

"We are off to a great defensive start, but unfortunately we are not doing anything offensively," said Livonia Franklin coach Armand Vigna after his Patriots dropped their second straight football decision, a 7-3 margin to city rival, Livonia Stevenson.

"We have a rule around here that if we can limit our rivals to 13 or less points, we'll win," Vigna continued. "We have done better than that this season, but we don't seem to be able to generate the offense."

Stevenson got on the scoreboard in the second quarter thanks to some inept punting by the Patriots who moved themselves backwards via two blocked kicks and a 10-yard punt. The Spartans scored after a 35-yard drive with quarterback Pete Mazzoni finding his way over the goal from five yards out. Sean Emery booted the extra point.

The Patriots cut the Stevenson lead in the third quarter when they settled for a 32-yard field goal by Mike Patzsch after a drive, which included a missed receiver standing alone in the end zone, fizzled.

"I feel badly that we didn't take advantage of our opportunities in both of our games this year. We have held our opponents to 100 yards – well, below our goal, but you have to score to win and we're not doing that."

While Mike Linenberg led the Franklin ground assault with 81 yards on 16 carries, the Patriots' impotent passing game featured only three completions in 17 tries, good for 28 yards.

The Patriots' defensive corps continues to sparkle thanks to the efforts of linebackers Chris Parenti, Mark Kepert and free safety, Linenberg.

As he pointed out in the season's previews, Vigna said the key to the season was the first three games. Pinned with two losses on their record, the Patriots have another challenging weekend ahead with Farmington Harrison next. Harrison, the defending division champ, is 1-1 on the season, and will host the 1 p.m. Saturday afternoon affair.

"They have another excellent team," said Vigna. "We must get on the board."

Harriers head for Schoolcraft Invitational

Area high school cross country teams will travel to Cass Benton Park on Saturday to compete in the prestigious Schoolcraft Invitational. Some 18 teams are scheduled to compete at the invitational, including favorite Farmington.

"It's tough to say who has what at this stage of the season," said Wayne Memorial's Joe Grasley after his team outran the Wolverine "A" Conference's newest member, Southgate Anderson. "But, Schoolcraft will tell us a lot about ourselves."

Grasley has taken over the Wayne club from John Simmonds, who stepped down. Noted for producing some outstanding athletes at Cherry Hill, Grasley is in his inaugural year as the head cross country coach at Wayne. (Cherry Hill closed last June as the school district decided to merge with the Wayne-Westland schools).

"We got off to a late start at Wayne because we didn't have a summer program for the kids," Grasley said. "I tried to contact some of our athletes by letter but received no response, so that is one of the reasons why we are getting off to a late start."

Late start or not, the Zebras dominated Anderson as Wayne runners swept the first five positions with Derrick Allen winning the event in 16:56. Allen was followed across the finish line by Bob Marshall (17:38), Darnell Hill (17:55), Dave Richards (18:04), Chris Wooley (18:21) while Kurt Linderman was seventh.

Wayne finished in the middle of the pack at the recent New Boston Huron Invitational with Allen's 13th place finish as the Zebras' best.

Inkster, Romulus, Huron in close duels

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It took three overtimes, but River Rouge did finally manage to pull out a 6-0 victory over Coach Arnice James and Inkster High's Vikings Friday afternoon.

The Rouge win spoiled the Vikings' home opener and the Suburban Athletic Conference debut for James's gridders.

"We just didn't play aggressively enough," said James after the game. "We had receivers who couldn't hold on to the ball. There is no logical explanation for their ineptness. This is, as was the game in Grand Rapids, a game that we should have won."

The difference in the game was LaMott Jones' three-yard touchdown run in the third extra period. Inkster had ample chances to end the game earlier when it reached the Panther two-yard line and faltered. The Inkster quarterback missed his target on a pass play.

The loss was doubly costly because the Vikings may have lost all-area gridder Antonio Anderson to a knee injury for the season. Anderson was injured in the third overtime.

"He's our nose man," said James referring to Anderson, "and an inspiration on defense. He could be sidelined for the rest of the season."

Rouge contained the Vikings most of the afternoon, holding Lorenzo Terrell to 35 yards and quarterback Bill Knox to a total of 85 passing yards. Andre Davis played his second strong defensive game as he blocked two punts and sacked the Rouge QB on two other occasions.

If Inkster is to snap its two-game losing streak it must do so at the expense of Willow Run, which is coming to town 4 p.m. on Friday with losses to Plymouth Canton and Highland Park. "They (meaning Willow Run) are tough," James said. "We have to find the chemistry that works out there."

In the meantime, New Boston Huron won the first half, but Airport came back and took the second half and the Huron Conference victory, 13-12, Friday night.

"We just didn't do anything in that second half," moaned Huron's Tom LaBeau, whose Chiefs run up against a 2-0 Riverview club Friday night at 7:30 in Riverview.

> "We need to get another superb performance from our defense and generate offense if we are going to stop Anderson"

Huron grabbed the opening kickoff and marched downfield to score on a one-yard plunge by Jon Tackett, and it appeared the Chiefs were well on their way to an easy victory. Tackett missed tdhe extra-point attempt, but the defense had a 6-0 lead to protect. But Airport retaliated with their first TD, and the game remained tied at 6-all until the second quarter.

Then, the Chiefs added to their lead in the second when quarterback John Umin teamed with Len Ziegler on a 15-yard scoring pass play. Again, the Chiefs failed to capitalize on the extra-point, and that proved costly in the long run.

Airport made its decisive touchdown overtures in the third quarter as Bill Bondy scored from nine-yards out and Darreil Mossberg kicked the PAT that proved to be the difference of the ballgame.

Tackett finished the evening with 57 yards rushing in 17 carries and Umin connected on seven of 18 passes while Huron's received an exceptionally good performance from sophomore tackle Mike Emery.

After a heartbreaking setback last week in their season opener against former Metro West Conference rival, Taylor Center, Romulus gridders bounced back Friday night to edge Allen Park Cabrini, 8-7, in the final seconds of their non-conference confrontation.

Trailing 7-0 and with 1:41 remaining in the game, the Eagles pulled out the victory over Cabri-

Wayne 3rd at EMU swim

With Milan and Monroe capturing the top two slots, respectively, Wayne Memorial swimmers finished a respectful third at the prestigious Eastern Michigan University Invitational Relays.

"I felt that we did an excellent job against some of the top teams in the state," said Wayne High girls' swim coach Jim McPartlin. "We came back with gold medals in the 200 yard medley and three second places."

Milan garnered 298 points for top honors while Monroe finished with 238 and Wayne had 224, followed by West Bloomfield (204), Brighton (200), Trenton (180), Chelsea (166), and Ypsilanti.

McPartlin chose Dyanne Sweikowsky, Julie Garlough, Vickie King and Carrie Basner for the 200-yard medley relay and the foursome responded with the winning time of 2:02.5.

Wayne had three second best relay teams: In the 400-yard individual medley Basner, Sweikiwsky, Lori Graham and Garlough earned silver medals while the 200-yard butterfly line-up of King, Jennifer Martin, Jackie Trudeau and Kendra MacIntosh also were "bridesmaids".

Wayne also finished second with the foursome of Basner, King, Colleen Rourke and Garlough in the 200-yard breastroke event.

McPartlin's swimmers return to the pool 7 p.m. on Thursday at Ypsilanti. The dual meet is a non-league affair.

Glenn

but they were thwarted. Northville's offense took a different tack, throwing the ball, at first, successfully. It was a 32-yard pass to Northville's All-State candidate, John Bringingstool, that got them their only score of the night.

"We got caught out of position," Gordon said. "We missed a couple of tackles early that allowed them to connect."

But Glenn stiffened and Northville was forced to settle for a 37-yard field goal early in the second quarter.

That 3-0 deficit soon served to quicken Glenn's resolve and the offensive line began to sustain their blocks for Beasley and Jones. The Rockets got it down to the 16-yard line before Northville stopped Beasley on third-and-short. Out came Tony Svaluto, who booted a 33-yarder for a 33 tie. For the 6-1 strong-legged kicker, it was his third 30-yard-plus field goal in two games.

A few minutes later, Glenn got the ball back and again they came to life.

With quarterback Steve Hawley running the team, Glenn got the ball downfield quickly. At the 2:00 mark, Hawley took the snap from center Joe Franchuk, looked right, and found Greg Bates in the corner of the end zone for the score and Glenn took the lead, 9-3. Unfortunately for the team in red-and-white, Svaluto's PAT went awry and in this game, could very well have made the difference.

Not to worry for the Rocket fans as the Rockets went to their locker room at halftime to discuss strategy. When they returned to the field, they were ready.

Defensively, Glenn held Northville's running game to only 44 yards on the ground and took away their passing game as well in the second half. Mike Hammontree led the way with two interceptions that allowed him to tie the Glenn record for interceptions in a career with seven, held by Ron Giuliani of the 1981 squad.

One of those Hammontree interceptions led to Glenn's third quarter touchdown at the 2:40 mark that saw Beasley pick up about 20 of his 181 game yards and Hawley reached the end zone with a 2-yard dive over the top for a 15-3 lead. This time, Gordon wanted the 14-point lead and went for two. Hawley converted and Glenn was up 17-3.

"That was the one that finally gave us some breathing room," Gordon noted. "That put us in control of the game."

This time the defense took over. Led by the limping Doug Strehl, Glenn's line stopped the Mustang running assault. The Rockets stopped them through the air as first, Pat Pettit, got his first career interception and then Bates iced the victory with his second steal of the season, returning it 16 yards to the 4-yard line.

Two plays later, Brian Wolf, dove over for his first TD and the Rockets had a hard-earned 23-3 victory.

Now it's on to Farmington for the Western Lakes Activities Association opener scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday and a chance to draw first blood in the Lakes Division title race.

"Farmington is coming in with a new coaching staff. They play good defense. It's the league opener and first place at stake. We have to be ready to play."

The Junior Varsity Rockets made it 2-0 on the season as Casey Killingbeck fired two touchdown passes to Greg Anderson and Jeff Elkins and Bryant Satterlee picked up 169 yards.

Zebras

maining moments of the first half.

The defenses of both teams dominated in the third quarter as neither team could mount any serious offensive threats. The quarter ended with Heard's second interception and subsequent 40 yard run back to the Ann Arbor 25.

The Zebras were not able to capitalize on this opportunity, however, on the 4th down, a field goal attempt by Quartuccio was thwarted on a mishandled center snap.

With time slowly disappearing in the final period, the River Rats went to the air in an attempt to make up the two touchdown deficit. Caruana came up with another key defensive play as he intercepted a pass and returned it to the home team's 36 yard line.

The next play looked like a replay of the Zebras' first score as Davis again took a pitchout and collaborated on a touchdown toss, this time with Tony Robertson.

During the wanning moments of the contest, Huron attempted desperately to salvage some margin of respectability. They marched to the Wayne 4-yard line where time ran out.

Wayne's defensive front line made up of Fred Horne, Mike Mayes, Shawn Howard, David King and Dave Suchan controlled the line of scrimmage. Senior linebackers Warner and Caruana as well as strong safety Ken Czajkowski also had outstanding games.

The offensive line had their second straight strong outing. Their performance is reflected in Tatum's 74 carries for 72 yards.

The Wayne Junior Varsity also upped its record to 2-0 with a 25-7 triumph over Ann Arbor Huron. Tom Faison with 160 yards rushing and 2 TDs; Dureyah Tatum, with a TD and 120 yards rushing and quarterback Bryan Tapp were the key offensive performers. Shayler Barnes tallied the remaining Zebra touchdown while Rick Howard and Jim McGraw were the defensive standouts.

ni with quarterback Luther Shammon's 35-yard touchdown pass to split end Anthony Russell, and with Jason Williams contributing the decisive two-point conversion.

"What can I say but to say that we were really fortunate to win this one," said Romulus coach Norb Glover. "I am hoping that this will give us the momemtum to turn this thing around."

Romulus will travel to Southgate Anderson Friday night for its third test of the season, and although Anderson has failed to win in its first two outings, Glover said that they (Anderson) have faced some very tough competition.

"Anderson is in a new league – the Wolverine 'A' – and they have excellent personnel," the Eagle coach noted. "Friday night's game is going to be another tough one and we're going to have to begin generating some offense in order to win."

The Anderson-Romulus game will be played at Schaffer High School. Kickoff is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Glover commended his "whole defensive unit for a superb job against Cabrini."

Romulus's girls' basketball team is off to its best start ever as coach Ron Bayles's Eagles posted their third consecutive victory of the campaign last week.

With Brenda Liedell scoring 19 points, collecting five steals and getting credit for six rebounds, Romulus turned back Wayne Memorial, 48-37, for victory no. 2. The Eagles jumped to a 31-17 halftime lead and never relinquished their advantage the rest of the way.

Also in double figures for the winners was Laurie Berlinn, who sank 13 points and had six rebounds, while Debbie Barr stood out defensively.

Wayne got 10 points each from Chris Adams and Shontel Spires.

Canton parking lot gets new resuable soccerdome

The grand old european sport of football, known as soccer to the average American, will come to Canton when an inflatable soccerdome is erected on the south side of Michigan Avenue between Beck and Belleville Roads at the site of the current softball center for the season beginning Nov. 3.

The dome will consist of two fields, one 185x85 regulation indoor field and one 80x60 practice field, totalling 120x300 feet approximately. A regulated astroturf and padding will be used because the dome will be placed on a section of the softball center parking lot.

According to Springer, there will be two sessions of 10 games each. The first session will run from Nov. 3 to Jan. 25, 1987; the second session will run from Jan. 26 to April 5, at which time the dome will be dissassembled Organized teams interested in seasonal schedules can contact either Canton Township Parks and Recreation at 357-1000 or the Plymouth Parks and Recreation at 455-6620.

Break open beer keg for a barrel of good food

BY CHEF LARRY JANES
ANP Special Writer

"Roll out those lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer. . .those days of sodas and pretzels and beer!"

Even as summer comes to a close and many of us find the need for a tall cool one turning into a mulled hot one, the taste for beer never seems to go out of style.

Whether you're chowing down on a fiery Mexican tostada or a double cheeseburger with everything, a frosty mug seems to fit the bill.

But, did you ever stop to think that beer, like wine, is a highly complex liquid with properties that make it as valuable for cooking as well as for thirst quenching? It blends so well with other ingredients that beer becomes an integral part of just about any dish. For example, a stew made with beer isn't just the same old stew with a superimposed taste of hops. It's something unique, created by a subtle interaction of all the ingredients. Since the alcohol evaporates when beer is heated, foods cooked with it are as appropriate for children as well as for their elders.

All beer is made from a combination of hops, malt, yeast and water. The actual brewing process consists of four main steps. The malt, which is made by germanating barley or other grains, is steeped in water to produce a liquor called wort. Hops are then boiled with the mixture to give the brew it's snappy personality. In the third step, the hops are removed and yeast is added to begin fermentation. Finally, the beer is transferred to tanks for the aging process.

Light lagers, mainly introduced from Germany during the last century, have become the most popular beers in this country. Ale has a sharper flavor than lager and tastes more strongly of hops. Stout is a strong dark beer which gets character from long roasting of the malt. Porter is creamy and dark like stout but has an even milder disposition. These dark, velvety beers are not everyone's choice, but for those who enjoy their lusty flavors, nothing can compare, even during a cooking process.

This fall, instead of inviting some friends over to watch a football game, try including a beer tasting between halves and during commercials. Beer tasting can be as much of a sport as wine tasting – even better perhaps, since it doesn't produce that sort of "awesome atmosphere" that usually occurs when people start pulling wine corks. Taste several beers at one session, sipping a little at a time and clearing your palate with breadsticks and cheese. Use the category of beer you are tasting and incorporate it in a recipe that can be cooked while the game continues.

When selecting beers for cooking and tasting, try to include different categories like those mentioned above and, by all means, purchase them in bottles rather than cans. Canned beer can sometimes pick up a pronounced "tinny" taste that comes from the metal used in canning. Professional tasters like their samples at about 38 degrees Fahrenheit. To follow their example, take the bottles from the refrigerator about 15 minutes before tasting, If you will be using the beer to cook with, beer used at room temperature will incorporate easier and will not "cool down" the dish you are preparing.

As always when cooking with wine, add the beer to the recipe and withhold about three tablespoons of the liquid until the recipe is just about ready to be served. Then, stir in the remaining beer at the last minute to incorporate a more pronounced aroma and taste.

In addition to making a great rinse for hair and serving as an excellent marinade for poultry, beer can make the best batter for tempura and fresh caught lake perch. Stir it into soups and stews or make a sauce and serve it over something hearty like pork chops and hot buttered noodles.

Forget the paper cups and the "all night kegger parties" and liven up your culinary repertoire with the taste of beer. Of course, when cooking with beer, always allow the chef to "sample the wares" and keep a few extra cold ones on hand. If grandpa only knew what that old pickle crock could put out. . . .

Bon Appetit!

MUSHROOM BEER SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter,1/2 cup green onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced fine
1 cup mushrooms, sliced
1/2 teaspoon dired thyme (optional)
1 cup beer
fresh ground pepper to taste
2 tablespoons flour

Heat butter in a large skillet until foamy. Add onion and garlic and sautee for 2 minutes, being careful not to brown the garlic too much. Add flour and continuing stirring until mixture thickens into a thick paste. Using a wire whisk, slowly add beer, stirring constantly until sauce thins. Add thyme and mushrooms and continue cooking over medium heat for 5 minutes, stirring often. Adjust seasonings with fresh ground pepper and a little more beer, if desired. Great over pork, roasts, spatzle, noodles or as a beginning sauce for stews.

EASY AS POPPIN A TOP CHEESE FONDUE
(Serves 4-6)

1 can or bottle beer
2 cups swiss cheese, shredded
2 tablespoons flour or cornstarch
dash tobasco
Bread cubes and fresh vegetables (for dipping)

Heat beer in a small saucepan until warm. Meanwhile, sprinkle cheese with flour or cornstarch and toss to coat. As the beer heats, gently stir in the cheese mixture, stirring constantly until smooth and thick. Cook, stirring constantly for 2 minutes. Just before serving, stir in tobasco and about 3 tablespoons beer. Serve with breadcubes and cut fresh vegetables.

IRISH STOUT CAKE
(Makes 1 loaf)

1 cup (2 sticks) butter
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
grated zest (peel) of 1 lemon
3½ cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon allspice
4 eggs, beaten
2 cups raisins
1 cup walnuts, chopped
1/4 cup stout beer (i.e. Guinness)

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Generously grease, a loaf pan. Cream butter and sugar and lemon peel until light and fluffy. Sift together the dry ingredients and add to butter mixture alternately with the eggs and mix well. Fold in raisins and walnuts.

(Chef's secret: try "plumping" the raisins by allowing them to soak in the stout for 15 minutes.)

Bake for 30 minutes, then reduce the heat to 300 degrees and cook for 30 minutes or until cake tests done using a toothpick. Let cool briefly in a pan, then remove and cool on wire rack. Serve with sweet butter and/or cream cheese.

BEEFY BEER STEW
(Serves 6)

1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
6 large onions, sliced thin
1/4 pound salt pork, diced
3 pounds lean, boneless beef rump or chuck, cubed
1/2 cup flour seasoned with salt and pepper
12 ounces dark beer (1½ cups)
1 cup beef broth
1 bay leaf
4 sprigs fresh parsley
1 teaspoon brown sugar

Melt butter in a large Dutch oven over low heat. Add onion and cook, stirring frequently until limp and delicately browned, about 15 minutes. While onion is cooking, blanch salt pork in water to cover for 5 minutes. Drain well. Add to onions and continue to sautee until crisp. Sprinkle seasoned flour over the beef cubes. Add coated beef cubes to the salt pork and onion minture and sautee until golden, then add the remaining ingredients. (Sauce should almost cover the beef – add more beer if needed.) Bring to a boil and then transfer to a 350 degree oven for 1½ hours.

WELSH RABBIT

1 tablespoon butter
1 pound sharp cheddar cheese, grated
3/4 cup beer
dash tobasco
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon worcestershire
1 egg, slighly beaten

Melt butter on top of a double boiler. Cook over hot, not-boiling water until cheese melts. Combine seasonings with remaining beer and stir into cheese. Stir in slighly beaten egg. Serve immediately over toast and broiled tomatoes.

BIERSUPPE
(Just what it says)

4 teaspoons butter
1½ tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
1 quart (32 oz.) beer or malt liquor
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon freshly grated lemon peel
dash cinnamon
2 eggs, separated

Melt butter till bubbly, sprinkle with flour and sugar, cook and stir until caramel colored. Gradually add the beer, cook and stir until smooth and slightly thickened. Add lemon juice, peel and cinnamon. Beat egg yolks and whisk in 1/2 cup hot soup. Return to rest of soup and reheat without boiling. Whip egg whites and float on top with a dusting of cinnamon. (Trust me on this one folks).

Secretary is baking lots of cakes

in the kitchen with joey gresehover

Joey Gresehover, a secretary for the city of Wayne, likes to sample some of her grandmother's time-tested recipes.

"People tell me that my apple pie tastes just like grandmother's," said Gresehover. "It's really the crust that makes it."

That apple pie might taste a little like grandmother's because it is. Well, sort of, to one of Gersehover's two children.

Aside from her casual pie baking and whipping up a delicious desert or two, Gresehover bakes cakes – big cakes, little cakes, round cakes, square cakes – you name it and she'll bake it, she said.

"I bake wedding cakes. I do a lot of birthdays, showers and things like that," Gresehover commented.

But enough of a biography, let's get to grandma's recipes. Gresehover agreed to share two of her best.

SPAGHETTI SAUCE

Brown 1 1/2 lbs. ground round with 1 clove garlic and 1 chopped onion.

Drain fat and add:

1 (48 oz.) can tomato juice
1 8 oz. can tomato paste
1 8 oz. can water
1 tbsp. salt
2 tsps. oregano, sweat basil and cinammon pepper
1 tbsp. sugar
dash of Worcestershire sauce
slice green pepper and celery

Also good for veal parmesan topping and pizza sauce.

APPLE PIE

6 cups Jonathon apples
3/4 cup sugar
1 tbsp. flour
1/2 tsp. cinammon
1/8 tsp. salt
dash of nutmeg

Heat oven to 425 degrees. Blend sugar, flour, cinnamon, sale and nutmeg. Pour into cut apples and stir. Bake at 425 for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 and bake for 45 minutes.

Pastry - double crust
2 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. salt
2/3 cup shortening
5-7 tbsps. water

Sift flour and salt. Cut in shortening until pieces are the size of small peas. Sprinkle with water, 1 tablespoon at a time. Form into a ball, divide in half. Flatten on lightly-floured surface. Roll 1/8 inch thick from center to edge.

Festival reflects Renaissance spirit

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

Just a mile north of Mt. Holly is the wooded "Shire of Hollygrove" – a land of knights and jousting, minstrels, mimes and street musicians plus a few rogues and wenches.

This weekend and next, visitors to the Michigan Renaissance Festival can step back into a European village of the 16th century and sample the sights and sounds re-created by costumed performers and artisans.

There is also an opportunity for personal involvement – not always of the visitor's choosing – when, for a few coins, one's friends can have the bailiff draw up an "arrest warrant" and haul the unsuspecting rogue or wench off to "gaol." Fifty cents will release the culprit with an admonition to "Go, thou, and sinneth not againe."

Visitors are welcomed at the festival gates by an assortment of peasants, artisans, merchants, jesters and street people costumed in authentic apparel. A stroll through the village offers continous entertainment by a variety of medieval minstrels. At one location a juggler may be performing while just down the lane a puppet show is under way and further along a group of madrigal singers perform their melodies. Young and old can participate in games of skill and chance such as archery, human chess, Jacob's ladder and the "King's Joust."

More than 100 craftsmen are on hand with pottery, paintings, carvings, leather work, clothing and sculptures along with flowers, perfumes and other handmade goods.

While it is almost a tradition to snack on a turkey drumstick while strolling through the festival grounds, visitors can choose from quiche, spinach pie, gyros sandwiches, shish kabob and French meat pie with an assortment of beverages and sweets to complement their meal.

The festival is marking it seventh season and has now taken up residence one mile north of Mt. Holly on Dixie Highway (U.S. 10) between Pontiac and Flint. Hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays through Sept. 28.

Tickets are available for $7.95 at the gate or $6.75 in advance at Fotomat stores, AAA offices and Ticketworld. Cost for children between the ages of five and 12 is $3.50 at the gate and $2.50 in advance.
